Jonah Question and Answer

Jonah -- You have mentioned you were with Jeshua Joseph Bar Joseph during the Essene time frame. The question I would like to ask. The stories of Lazarus who was raised from the dead & the cripple who lay at the Gate Called Beautiful & was healed. Did these miracles actually happen as recorded in the bible? Thank you for your answer. Bonnie Harrison, Sacramento, California

Beloved, for one to truly understand the Bible one needs to read the full Bible, but indeed much of these messages have been removed because they did not fit the desired outcome of the time. The message ye are referring to was written some time after the event spoken about. Part of the writing of this story is written by Luke, true name Loukas, a medical doctor wanting to support a religious teaching from a teacher he had not met. What makes a story true? The length of time it has been written? Within that time ones had Oral Tradition which was codified and written down many years, sometimes centuries, after an event occurred. Many messages from Jeshua Joseph Bar Joseph were taught in parables, from the ancient Greek meaning to compare to what was occurring in that age. Jeshua was an Essene. The Essenes were known as healers, healers of the mind, emotions, spirit, and yes the physical body. Can one be raised from the dead, “spiritually dead”, can a cripple rise and walk “emotionally crippled”? There are many forms of healing, although many see physical healing as the most dramatic form of healing. These two ye refer to were indeed about ones being able to heal a spiritually dead person and an emotionally crippled person. Does this mean that such events never occurred? Indeed not, there were, are, and will be many different forms of healing. The writing of this story in your Bible has been altered many times and is used in this time frame to teach the existence of hell, a fear teaching to keep ones in their “spiritually obedient” state of mind. We well understand many want to be healed, but many do not want to do what it takes to heal. A true sign to look for is if one is angry because they have not healed. This indeed is a sign healing is not imminent...Jonah

Jonah, you have spoken much about the need for passion in our lives but many have no conscious concept of just what that is or what that feels like. Would you give us some insights into that problem so that we may more easily tap into the essence of passion? Richard Morrissey, Louisville, Colorado

Indeed, for passion to occur one must have compassion. Listen to our message Compassion. Ye live in a world of tradition, following in the footsteps of the parents, living a life for security, giving up your dreams. Well for goodness sakes, one will not be able to experience passion following these rules. We well understand ones want to experience true passion, but passion cannot be experienced when ye are doing the same patterns of the past. One needs to step outside of their security zone; one needs to step outside of tradition. Look at the mass consciousness of your American country. Look how willing ye are to sell your freedom for security. Look how willing the mind is to sell its passion for the approval of parents, society, friends, and religions. Allow your mind to remember the most exciting event of your life, feel that energy. What would it be like to carry that energy at all times. Indeed it is possible, but is not possible living your life for approval. Step outside of your security zone, step outside of your traditions. True passion is when one is indeed their own person, and not a product of society...Jonah

Jonah, on working with finding and releasing core belief: How can you confirm that you have indeed arrived at the core belief? Sheri Perrin, Whidbey Island, Washington.

Well for goodness sakes. We taught this in the Intensive A Belief Worth Dying For? There is not a singular answer to this question. This is why we used many hours to describe this in detail for those who choose to come and learn from our message. We well understand that some are choosing to read notes from others that have many errors, and or omissions in them. Indeed some are even attempting to teach this message when they themselves have not even found their own core belief. If ye want to learn about core beliefs and how to release them, learn from ones who have mastered this. Mastered means they are living this in totality, not simply claiming to be a master of this. Listen to our message Karma For Sale. If one wants to learn something, learn it from one who has mastered it. If one wants to learn carpentry, learn from a master carpenter. If one wants to learn about relationships, learn from one who has created a loving relationship. There are many who proclaim to be teachers, channels, psychics, therapists, carpenters, and plumbers. Indeed, there are many who do their work with honor because they have mastered what they teach. That is a sign they are working with honor. Those who attempt to teach what they have not mastered are indeed creating karma. Therefore, do not accept errors and or omissions in notes, rather search ones who has mastered the ability to search their core belief and has in totality released their core belief. Then ye will know what ye have learned is truth. We find many who listened to our message at the Intensive are indeed finding their core belief and they are healing on a level they have not healed before. Wonderful indeed...Jonah

Note: We have received many questions from our friends in Greece about the current riots by the youth of Greece. We have selected two for this Newsletter.

“Jonah, what is the meaning of all the vandalisms that happen in Athens these days? Where all this can lead? How can one help peace to prevail?” Aphrodite Tsalgatidou, Athens Greece

Jonah, a boy 15 years old was killed in Athens, Greece. Why? His death carried a message. After his death young people burn and break stores all over Athens and other cities in Greece. What is the message? How can I help myself and other people to become aware of this message? Despina Papadopoulou, Athens, Greece

That which begins in Greece shall spread over time. The youth of Athens are looking for one to guide them, to create a change in culture, a change in religion, a change in government. This government shall fail, as predicted long ago. Those who have not a dream have despair. Ye are beginning to see and to witness what will again occur. The youth will rebel against the tradition of their parents, government, and religion, because this tradition only leads to destruction. It does not support the dream of the heart. That of the old shall parish just as the ancient temples of the gods have perished. The death of this child occurred not just by the hands of corruption, but because the youth do not have a dream. They feel they are forced to follow the tradition of the old. They are using violence because they have not been taught peace; they are using anger because they have not been taught joy. The message to learn is the old cannot continue. Listen to our message Children of the 21st Century and Children of the 21st Century Continues. In your ancient Greek culture there existed a man, a teacher, indeed a philosopher who taught the youth of Athens to dream - to question the gods of the time - to question the corrupt government of the time. Indeed, this man was sentenced to death for corrupting the youth of Athens because he taught them to think, not follow, he taught them to dream and not accept the old. He was sentenced to death because he dared to reach into the heart of truth which threatened the old establishment. There shall come one again to assist them, let it be, watch, observe, learn...Jonah

A message taught to Plato by Socrates;

We can easily forgive a child who is afraid of the dark; the real tragedy of life is when men are afraid of the light... Plato

Questions for the next Newsletter

"Jonah, why do many lack the basic self-love required to take the necessary steps for our own healing? Do you have any suggestions on how to shift that so ones can then do the work healing requires? Thank you!" Jackie Lloyd

Jonah I remember in your message A Man Called Jesus you gave in 1985. You refer to Jesus as Jeshua Joseph Bar Joseph. I am finding many are now using this name. My question is this. Some call him Jeshua Bar Joseph. Is this incorrect or is Jeshua Joseph Bar Joseph a different person then Jeshua Bar Joseph? Tim McCoy, Orlando, Florida
